Nexis

Nexis is a database that gives you direct access to journal articles, regional, national, and international newspapers, company profiles and biographical information. The database contains more than 32,000 sources with up to 30 years archive available.

To access Nexis

- Select LexisNexis from the A-Z list on the Electronic Resources page of the NICS elibrary website;
- The “How do I . . . .” helps on the left hand side and link to “View Tutorials” provides useful information on how to get the best from the database;
- At any time you can return to the search page by clicking on Nexis UK at the top left.

Please ensure that you Sign Out at the end of your session.
To carry out a search

You will enter the database at the main News screen where you can carry out a general search for an article or subject if you don’t have the source. The second section below shows you how to search for an article in a specified source.

To find an article without a “source” (the journal or newspaper title)

- Enter a word into the first text box: You can be more specific by choosing from the dropdown menu, for example “In the headline” or “Major Mentions”;
- If required, enter another word into the next textbox;
- You can use a specific “term” by entering it into just one box;
- You can also narrow your search by specifying the date;
- Click on Search on the right;
- Results page will appear.

- Use View to see a List, an Expanded List, or Full Text;
- Click on an article title to see the full article;
- You can print, email or download the article by clicking on the icons to the right, just below the list of results.;
To find an article in a specified journal or newspaper

- At the Search page, click on the Sources tab at the top left and then Find Sources;
- Enter the journal/newspaper title into the Keyword box;
- Click on Find Sources on the right;
- If the search is successful, a tickbox will appear beside the title of the journal/newspaper;
- Tick the box and click on OK Continue on the right;
- A Power Search box will appear where you can enter your search terms. Use connectors between words, that is “and” or “or”;
- You can specify a date or time period;
- Click Search; a results list will appear and you can view, download or print articles as required.
